The Cavani String Quartet is an American string quartet based in Cleveland, Ohio. The group was established in 1984 and has been the Quartet-in-Residence at the Cleveland Institute of Music since 1988. The quartet is named for the 19th century violin makers Giovanni and Vincenzo Cavani.

An irresistible presence on stage, the Quartet concertizes regularly in major series and festivals throughout North America and Europe. They have been featured on National Public Radio's Performance Today and St. Paul Sunday, as well as on NBC, CBS, ABC, and PBS television.

The Cavani Quartet has established itself as a dynamic leader in the field of Arts in Education. As part of their commitment to education, its members offer many concerts, master classes, workshops and seminars for growing and learning string players.
